DRY GOODS NOTES

nu naturals stevia products will be back in stock soon, the news is the stevia powder now comes in bulk so that is how we will stock it---no more plastic bottles! some of the stevia tinctures are alcohol free as well.

red curry paste and surachee hot sauce will be back this week, with luck. sun tea will be back, thanks for asking. all of these items come through earthly gourmet in portland.

sweet creek foods makes salsa from local ingredients. i would like to know if you would want this on the shelves, it is in jars so you can keep it in your pantry.

thai rice noodles are back, i forgot to order them for awhile, sorry. chocolove salted almond bar is back as well.

we may be a little low on tahini for a week or so, don't panic, it will be back next week or the week after.

A BIG THANKS TO CIALIN for letting me know we were out of maple syrup friday, i thought we had enough. it takes a team of us to keep it going.

speaking of team.....phil does the vast majority of dry goods stocking. he takes care of the united, hummingbird and azure deliveries as well as a few random deliveries. he does a terrific job. lately the job has become a bit more difficult due to some dry goods rearrangement...he's found entire sections with all the stock pushed to the back of the shelf making it hard for people to see what's on the shelf, some areas where things have been turned around so you don't see the front of the label and some things placed randomly around the shelves. this is not good: it makes phil's job harder, makes my inventory less accurate and it makes it harder for people to shop. we can't figure out why/when this is happening. so if you're cleaning (thank you) or otherwise doing anything with the shelves please be careful. if this is children.....well the adult should fix it. dry goods is not a play area.

which reminds me, i was asked to remind people if you bring children to growers you are supposed to be responsible for them. we have a play area with a couch, toys, a few books (we could use a few more) so children have a nice hang out space. need we say anything else?

over the next few months we can expect some higher prices. wheat is going up for a number of reasons, including speculators, this will impact many products. just one more reason to support the local farmers! don't be put off by the colder weather.....plant peas. sue
